“ Dear Mike we met that night in Fort Worth at the Palace 1980 something. You were so happy and Handsome flirting with the girls. I looked at you and said to myself there is John Travolta. We were a team me looking like Farrah. You and I danced on that color glass dance floor with all color of lights and smoke coming out into the dance floor. We were to beautiful young kids dancing to all the Disco songs like the BeeGees, KC and the sunshine band. We had the best times. We dated for awhile and we were to young broke kids. I remember that old car of yours and you crawling through the window because the door was messed up and my car the old green Camero wasn't any better. You had no furniture in your apartment. But yet we had a romantic TV dinner looking down from your apartment window over looking the pool. You took me to your work where you sold appliances and you wore this three piece light green suit. You wore that suit a lot. We hung out with your friend at your apartments that worked at that German restaurant Eldelweissnhe he sang there. Oh you came to my Grandmas house to eat one Sunday after we went to Church. My Grandma thought you were so handsome. You took me to meet your dad in Bridgeport and I learned about your family. It broke my heart hearing your story. We went our separate ways months later. But fate brought us back together one day around 1989 or 1990 can't remember year was close around those years there when we ran into each other at the North Hills Mall and you asked for my number and I didn't give it to you. I was married but I so wanted to give it to you dear friend. You were still handsome as ever. I was looking through Facebook to see if I could find you and I was heart broken when I came across your obit. Mike you were a sweetheart and had a good heart and deserved happiness and the world at your feet. Please forgive me if I hurt you. We were so very young. I say goodbye friend. It was a blessing to cross your path in this life we had fun dancing and to share my love with you. Save me a place in Heaven and now you can REST in PEACE. Until we meet again sweet Prince. Love Kim (I pray for your kids and grandkids grow and flourish and may they carry your memory into eternity.) AMEN
