“ One memory I have of my dad went over my head as a child but now I realize how funny it is. I was in elementary and my mom kept my hair short enough to only touch my chin. I had written him telling him about the kids laughing at me and calling me Dora. My dad then drew a picture of Dora and drew the letter "B" on her dress. I now realize the drawing wasn't Dora but a drawing of me. I told him about my hilarious haircut and how kids made fun of it and not only did he also make fun of me but he drew it so perfectly everyone who saw it loved it.
